

<4D5>

A detailed line drawing of an engine compartment. A black arrow points to a sensor located on the upper left side of the engine block, near the intake manifold. The sensor is a small cylindrical component with a threaded base. Various hoses, belts, and other engine components are visible in the background.

Engine coolant temperature sensor

AC501817AL